

Lab 6: Elevation Surface Visualization and Analysis

Arden Culver

Caption 1:
To the right is a map that includes two potential lookout points for the study of wolverine dens. The map includes elevation levels, the McCully Trail, as well as the DEM data that was translated through the "classify" spatial analysis tool.

Caption 2: This map illustrates land that qualifies as denning habitat. Note the north facing compass; this perspective is situated from the southern side of this basin.
